it's very important for me to tell you that the word failure is invented by man just like the word pollution... it's a word of ignorance because nature can't... nature knows exactly what she's doing... but when man doesn't understand nature and thinks that this is the way the beauty of the universe was made to make this to do this thing... that's the great thing... we've just been a little too crude at it... our society's got to be not something new... you and I are technology, so superior to any we've ever devised... then there's an accumulation of technical capability so when another man comes along he adds to.

so when our young world, like that young girl talking so superbly on Earth Day, eight years old kid, pure wisdom putting out her eyes, she could see as clear, when she said now it might be true that there are things like that... she could see that... and so the rest from all of our extraneous earth day is that we have all of humanity's energy to be attended to... yesterday someone else was attending to... the fact that they were in such poverty... they had so little time... they had to work 12 hours or 14 hours a day... my first job I really was going to get was to make beds for people who were in bed and don't have the vocabulary... they didn't have the literature... the literacy did not come as much out of school as out of nature... the people who had the radio jobs had good dictionary, good vocabulary necessary for it, so the kids could learn to read while they learn to make beds... it was a little kid all that kids would say was "I don't like it" or "wow"... just make a noise because they didn't have the resources to express it... the same wisdom...
