"Minneapolis needed the Festival as much as the Festival was needed nationally. Consider it an exchange for Bob Dylan."

The "First National Video Festival" took place on August 7 - 18. The Festival was sponsored by the Minneapolis College of Art and Design aided by grants from the Avon Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts. It consisted of a tape competition and workshops. The Festival was promoted nationally and anyone wishing to submit a tape "that had not been shown on cable, educational TV or public broadcast channels" was invited to enter. Commercial networks could send examples of work that had been produced in their studios if the tape had not appeared on broadcast. One hundred and fifty entries were received for the categories of video art, documentary, student and conceptual art. The tapes were reviewed by a jury of "recognized professionals" which included: Sister Bede Sullivan, Alan Kraning, Sidney Simon, George C. Stoney, Barbara Rose and Gene Youngblood. The Prize winners were:

Documentary Category - First Prize—$300

"Bobby the Fife" by Frederick Simon, Lexington, Massachusetts. This short and moving documentary stars a 26-year-old wine-drug freak who frequents Boston Common.

Runners-Up — $50 Each

"V.D. Epidemic" by Rudi Stern, representing Global Village, New York. This tape was produced as a group project by the Global Village Video Workshop in conjunction with the New School for Social Research. The work combines clinical information with candid interviews, providing the public with an honest view of the growing health problem. "Transsexuals" produced as a group project at Global Village, represented by John Reilly, New York. This frank and intimate view of persons who have gone through a sex change is variously startling and delightful.

Student Category - First Prize—$200

"Cabbie Flyers" by Morris Brokman, Brooklyn, New York. Using borrowed equipment from the New York University School of Continuing Education, Brokman depicts the life of a cab driver and the relationship between older drivers and the new "hip" drivers which are starting to take over the cab-driving industry.

Runners-Up — $50 Each

"The Kazoo" by Mitchell Gallab, Seaford, New York. "The Kazoo", produced in conjunction with New York University School of the Arts, is a showcase for Lucille Corro, as Angelina Hymbeck, a "renowned" kazoo-playing star of the forties.

Video Art Category - First Prize—$300

"31" by Walter Wright, New York. "31" is a series of graphic images animated directly on videotape. Wright develops a theme based on a calendar which floats and whirls in what appears to be three-dimensional space.
